

Quality and customer-orientation in focus

So we can guarantee you the highest degree of quality and service, each one of our product areas is supervised by experienced specialists. They have a practice-oriented know-how of the fish sector and are perfectly equipped to look after the varied import and export procedure tasks (from documentation to labelling) for our national and international customers. Thanks to our many years of experience in the fish trade we can provide our customers and suppliers with valuable market information and offer them an extensive spectrum of services, which ranges from the consultation and support down to the purchasing, development and marketing – so, for instance, beside standard products we are also in a position to provide product solutions tailored to your particular requirements.

Our precise on-site production monitoring and a consistent goods input control guarantee you top quality. Take advantage of our comprehensive delivery program of all sorts of fresh and frozen fish: our closeness to the market enables us to get the raw materials at the right time.

As we maintain our own stocks we are ready to deliver at any time and can offer you the best possible prices.

We can help you to maximise the opportunities within the market.